Oakhurst Elementary School held their elections for the Kiwanis K-Kids officers, a program sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Seminole Breakfast, on Nov. 6. The Oakhurst Elementary K-Kids provides members with opportunities to form sound personal values and build self-esteem based on experiences in meaningful community service activities. K-Kids learn the core values of character building, inclusiveness, caring, leadership and loyalty to school and community. The newly elected officers are wearing T-shirts designed by Madison Melton, the winner of last year's T-shirt design contest. All 48 members were provided T-shirts by Kiwanis Seminole Breakfast Club. Pictured front row, from left, Andrew Stubbs, sergeant-of-arms; Kendall Swartz, secretary; Jake Maxemow, vice president; and Madison Melton, president.; back row, faculty advisers Monica Foley, Stefanie Piccicchi and Leighanne Smith-Mirkaja.
